2016-2017 NCDA Awards
By Natalie Kaufman

Each year during the annual NCDA Global Career Development Conference, NCDA honors those who exemplify excellence in career development. The following awards were presented at the 2017 NCDA Global Career Development Conference in Orlando. For more information about the NCDA awards and winners visit www.ncda.org.

THE EMINENT CAREER AWARD

The Eminent Career Award is awarded to individuals who have influenced either the practice of, or the thinking (theorizing) about career development through leadership activities or scholarship. Their careers are characterized by frequent, periodic, and sustained activities over a substantial period of time. This award is considered NCDA’s highest honor. And the award goes to...

CAROLE W. MINOR, Distinguished Teaching Professor Emeritus, Department of Counseling, Adult and Higher Education, Northern Illinois University.

THE PRESIDENTIAL AWARDS

The Presidential Awards recognize exceptional contributions which advance the growth, reputation, and impact of NCDA. And the awards go to...

CYNTHIA MARCO-SCALON for her outstanding support to NCDA during her presidential term, her support of the credentialing commission, and her support to all the board and the presidents this year.

NARENDER CHADHA for his support of career development in India, his decades of research, writing, and teaching, and his support of women and underprivileged and underserved populations.

JULIA PANKE-MAKELA for her continued work and support of career development and of NCDA through her service on the ethics committee and her writing of excellent monographs.

OUTSTANDING CAREER PRACTITIONER AWARD

The Outstanding Career Practitioner Award recognizes practicing career counselors, consultants, or teachers for outstanding performance in day-to-day service. Each of the following areas are considered: years of service, quality of service, and participation and leadership in career development professional associations. NCDA has selected two recipients of the Outstanding Career Practitioner Award this year. And the awards go to...

RON CATHEY, Director of Counseling and Career Services Centers at Louisiana Tech University in Ruston, LA. His “service to students” and passion for helping them find their individual journey is inspiring. His longstanding leadership and ongoing contributions to the field of career development includes local, national and state involvement. At the state level, he served as President of both Louisiana’s Career Development and Counseling Associations and has continued to serve on the Board of Directors for the Counseling Association. Besides his stellar servant leadership skills, Ron is also a talented presenter. Ron’s years of leadership and service to the career development field epitomizes the tenets of NCDA’s vision and mission.

CHARLES LEHMAN, Director of the Employment and Economic Information Center of New Mexico LLC. He is a charter member of the NM Career Development Association and has served as treasurer and conference planning director. He has been a board member of the National Career Development Association for two terms as national treasurer and regional state coordinator. Charles currently chairs our Veterans Committee and previously served as co-chair of our Government Relations Committee. He is a column writer for the NCDA Career Developments magazine and also writes for our association’s website occupational resources section.

THE MERIT AWARD

The NCDA Merit Award honors individuals who have made significant contributions to the field of career development including education and mentoring of career counseling students, development of or leadership in exemplary career programs, conducting significant research in the field, and advocacy efforts to inform and persuade policy makers about career development. NCDA has selected the following three recipients for the Merit Award.

PARDINGTONE NHUNDU, founder of Careers Zimbabwe, is an unusually creative, determined, compassionate, and driven servant leader who single-handedly created “Careers Zimbabwe” which supports more than 20,000 people including students, teachers and parents through social media, workshops, and advocacy. Pardingtone’s commitment and passion for career development significantly contributed to his country and its people. Through the writing and development of workshops, guides, and blogs, he has steadily built a career development culture within a county where the concept is unfamiliar. His exceptional leadership has been recognized by other African countries to the point that he is described as a “career development expert” by the Founder of Culture Shock.

MICHAEL J. STEBLETON, is an Associate Professor in the College of Education and Human Development at the University of Minnesota-Twin Cities, MN. He has been involved in various aspects of the career development field for over 20 years as a counselor, advisor and faculty member and exemplifies the integration of a “scholar-practitioner” approach. His teaching and research interests focus on: career development, multicultural student development, college student success, and retention issues of historically marginalized student populations. Current studies focus on understanding the experiences of first generation and immigrant college students, including factors that influence career decision-making. Mike’s overall contributions to the field and to NCDA demonstrate clear commitment and service to the organization and to impacting the lives of students and clients, with a focus on inclusivity, support, and advocacy.

BILLIE STREUFERT, Executive Director of the Success Center in Augusta University in Augusta, GA, helps others discover meaningful work and engage in study. In addition to her NCDA publications, presentations, and participation in multiple committees, Billie has managed our LinkedIn group for five years, creating an inclusive forum for 16,000 members to discuss career development. She also invested significant time to stay informed of promising practices. Her shared findings significantly helped influence NCDA Board policy, Leadership Academy projects, graduate students and career practitioners.
THE INTERNATIONAL PRACTITIONER OF THE YEAR AWARD

The NCDA International Practitioner of the Year Award recognizes one member who has made a significant contribution to the advancement of NCDA's mission in their respective country, as selected by the NCDA International Committee. And the award goes to…

ANDREW RIMINGTON, who has 25 years of experience in the employment, education & training (EET) program delivery and policy areas in Australia and worked for the Australia Chamber of Commerce & Industry focusing on national policy for EET throughout Australia. Serving as the country director of the Asia-Pacific Career Development Association (APCDA), he opened a window into Australia for both NCDA and the APCDA, providing vast amounts of information on the national goals and planning for career development in Australia. While a change in government thwarted many of his plans for comprehensive career services in Australia, his thinking and drafted policies became models for the rest of the world.

SERVICE TO INTERNATIONAL STUDENTS AWARD

The NCDA Service to International Students Award is intended to recognize excellence in diversity career services offices and/or career centers that have made an active commitment to partnering with and supporting the career development of international students. And the award goes to…

GEORGE WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY’S CAREER SERVICES COUNCIL INTERNATIONAL STUDENT PROJECT TEAM, for providing strategic direction and collaboration for career services initiatives that impact nearly 250 GW undergraduates, graduate and professional students and more than 275,000 alumni. The team is collaborative, committed, and strategic, relying on nearly 30 campus partners committed to ongoing communication to conceptualize and implement programs and resources that are reaching international students. From the creative and specialized programming, to networking opportunities for students and alumni, graduate and professional students and to the peer-to-peer advising program, the opportunities for GW international students to learn and grow in their career and professional development is exceptional.

EXEMPLARY CAREER CENTER AWARD

This award promotes the continued development and implementation of thoughtful and innovative initiatives that support career development for outstanding service within two areas: 1) education, government, and business and 2) non-profit or community settings. The award for the former goes to…

FLEISCHMAN CENTERS FOR CAREER AND PROFESSIONAL DEVELOPMENT AT BINGHAMTON UNIVERSITY, STATE UNIVERSITY OF NEW YORK IN BINGHAMTON, NY. The center provides a transformative learning community that prepares Binghamton undergraduate and graduate students with career readiness skills for advanced education and careers. They are committed to helping students secure opportunities through creating connections via high-impact learning, alumni and employer consulting sessions. Collaboration is their cornerstone and the key to their innovation and growth with documented impact at both the local and national levels. They are one of only a handful of higher education institutions that provide a Wellness Center within their offices.

The award for non-profit community settings goes to…

CAREERS ZIMBABWE, a non-profit organization which offers career development, behavior change, and entrepreneurship/leadership training to youths in high schools and tertiary institutions, Churches, and partnerships with any other youth organization. Starting off the site of a university student’s desk and leveraged by multiple social media connections, Careers Zimbabwe has now grown to the point that external funders are supporting it as it continues to impact thousands of unemployed, underemployed and disenfranchised youths. It recently launched an e-zine and is planning a career week and a career development conference with international speakers for 2017.
